Take Off System

All the features of the Take Off Collection, its finishes, its ergonomic shapes, its unique design... combined with the advantages of a "system" – structural panels, modular storage, and that amazing flexibility... That's what Take Off System offers.

Design, elegance, quality...
But, especially, ample work surfaces and the optimal use of vertical space when floor space is limited.

The translucent privacy screen is a virtual divider

The metal pedestal blends strength with aesthetics

Finish : cayenne maple

Budgetwise...

With Take Off System, installing, modifying, even moving entire workstations is child's play. Not to mention the economic advantage over all other forms of solid construction.

The matching stabilizer panel is the elegant backbone of this ensemble.

Finishes : white and maritime maple

Lateral files become multi-tasking when integrated with the workstation!

Upholstered full-height panels,
 low translucent screens, wood panels,
 glass panels... You choose!

Design Notes

Rails and bulletin boards add the right decorative touch to innately functional accessories.

From reception...

A veritable little command centre, this reception desk offers numerous ergonomic features that benefit both visitor and occupant, including varied storage, an ample work surface, a computer corner, and other amenities.

Counter heights adapted to visitors

Finish : teak

to the sales office...

Multi-use surface, divider panels, translucent privacy screen, personal cabinet... this is a complete workstation. Multiply it by 2, 10, or 35, it's easy as 1-2-3.

Finishes : maritime maple and honey to telemarketing...

Another approach to the call centre: economical, solid, comfortable, so...
Take Off!

Finishes : honey and charcoal
